INTRODUCTION

20 This is an action alleging tort claims against the Department of Veterans Affairs (“VA”) (named 21 herein as “VA San Diego Healthcare System”). Plaintiff’s suit, initially brought in the Superior Court
22 of California, was removed to district court on May 19, 2008. Pursuant to the Court’s June 12, 2008
23 Order, the United States and the VA were allowed until July 18, 2008 to answer or otherwise plead to 24 Plaintiff’s Complaint.

25 As detailed herein, Defendant respectfully moves the Court to dismiss Plaintiff's Complaint for 26 the following reasons:

27 First, the Complaint does not comply with the pleading requirements of Rule 8 of the Federal
28 Rules of Civil Procedure (the “Federal Rules”). Plaintiff not only fails to provide any jurisdictional

1 grounds for his action, but most significantly, fails to provide Defendant with a short and plain statement
 2 of the claim showing that Plaintiff is entitled to relief. Second, Plaintiff does not establish that he
 3 complied with the Federal Tort Claims Act's administrative claims requirements. Finally, Plaintiff has 4 improperly named the VA as a defendant. The Complaint should therefore be dismissed under Rules
 5 8 and 12(b)(1) and (6) of the Federal Rules.

6 II

7 ARGUMENT8 A. PLAINTIFF'S COMPLAINT SHOULD BE DISMISSED FOR FAILURE TO COMPLY
 9 WITH RULE 8 OF THE FEDERAL RULES

10 Rule 8 of the Federal Rules sets forth the general requirements for pleading. It provides, in 11 pertinent part, as follows: "A pleading that states a claim for relief must contain: (1) a short and plain
 12 statement of the grounds for the court's jurisdiction . . .; [and] (2) a short and plain statement of the claim
 13 showing that the pleader is entitled to relief . . ." Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(a). Another section of the same rule
 14 further provides that "[e]ach allegation must be simple, concise, and direct." Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(d)(1).

15 The purpose of Rule 8(a) and (d) is to give fair notice of the claim asserted and permit the 16 adverse party the opportunity to file a responsive answer and prepare an adequate defense. Brown v.
 17 Califano, 75 F.R.D. 497, 499 (D.D.C. 1977). In addition, the rule serves to sharpen the issues to be 18 litigated and to confine discovery within reasonable grounds. Prezzi v. Berzak, 57 F.R.D. 149, 151
 19 (S.D.N.Y. 1972).

20 The Federal Rules' pleading requirements are quite liberal especially when, as here, a pro se
 21 plaintiff is involved. Haines v. Kerner, 404 U.S. 519, 520 (1972). Plaintiff's status as a self-represented
 22 litigant, however, does not excuse him from complying with those requirements. See King v. Atiyeh,
 23 814 F.2d 565, 567 (9th Cir. 1987); Cato v. United States, 70 F.3d 1103, 1106 (9th Cir. 1995). There is 24 a limit to the law's lenity, and even a pro se complaint is subject to dismissal if the pleading is deficient.
 25 King v. Atiyeh, 814 F.2d at 567; United States ex rel. Dattola v. Nat'l Treasury Employees Union, 86
 26 F.R.D. 496, 499 (W.D. Pa. 1980).

27 Courts have readily dismissed actions where the complaint: was "confusing, ambiguous, [and]
 28 redundant" (Wallach v. City of Pagedale, 359 F.2d 57, 58 (8th Cir. 1966)); was "so verbose, confused

1 and redundant that its true substance, if any, is well disguised" (Corcoran v. Yorty, 347 F.2d 222, 223
 2 (9th Cir. 1965) (per curiam)); contained "a completely unintelligible statement of argumentative fact"
 3 (Koll v. Wayzata State Bank, 397 F.2d 124, 125 (8th Cir. 1968)); or was "a meandering, disorganized,
 4 prolix narrative" (Karlinsky v. New York Racing Ass'n, 310 F. Supp. 937, 939 (S.D.N.Y. 1970)).

5 In the present case, the Complaint patently violates Rule 8(a) and (d) because there is no "short
 6 and plain" nor "concise" statement of Plaintiff's claims. Rather, the pleading is presented on a Judicial
 7 Council of California standard tort complaint form. Attached to it is a verbose and rambling account
 8 of various disjointed happenings.

9 The observations of the Brown v. Califano court about the pro se plaintiff's pleadings before it
 10 apply equally well to this case:

11 The pleading filed by the plaintiff in this case is indeed a confusing and rambling
 12 narrative of charges and conclusions. . . . The complaint contains an untidy assortment 13 of claims that are neither plainly nor concisely stated. . . . It belabors the obvious to conclude that the complaint filed in this action falls far short of the admittedly liberal standard set in F. R. Civ. P. 8(a).

14 Brown v. Califano, 75 F.R.D. at 499.

15 Answering Plaintiff's Complaint in its present form would be difficult if not impossible. Plaintiff
 16 should be required to formulate a pleading that complies with Rule 8 and to which Defendant can
 17 reasonably respond. It would hinder justice to require Defendant to answer this complaint and be subject
 18 to discovery when the Plaintiff refuses to present his claims in an orderly fashion. See Vance v.
American Society of Composers, 271 F.2d 204, 207 (8th Cir. 1959).

20 B. PLAINTIFF'S TORT CLAIM IS BARRED BY PRINCIPLES OF SOVEREIGN
 21 IMMUNITY BECAUSE HE DOES NOT ESTABLISH THAT HE SUBMITTED A
 22 JURISDICTIONALLY REQUIRED ADMINISTRATIVE CLAIM BEFORE FILING HIS COMPLAINT

23 1. Under Principles of Sovereign Immunity, the Extent to which the Federal
 24 Government Can Be Sued in Tort Is Limited by the Federal Tort Claims Act

25 The United States, as sovereign, is immune from suit except to the extent that it consents to be 26 sued. United States v. Mitchell, 445 U.S. 535, 538 (1980); United States v. Testan, 424 U.S. 392, 398
 27 (1976); Reed ex rel. Allen v. United States Dep't of the Interior, 231 F.3d 501, 504 (9th Cir. 2000). The 28 terms of the sovereign's consent narrowly define a court's jurisdiction, United States v. Sherwood, 312
 U.S. 584, 586 (1941), and any waiver of immunity must be unequivocally expressed:

1 The basic rule of federal sovereign immunity is that the United States cannot be
 2 sued at all without the consent of Congress. A necessary corollary of this rule is that 3 when Congress attaches conditions to legislation waiving the sovereign immunity of the 4 United States, those conditions must be strictly observed, and exceptions thereto are not
 5 to be lightly implied.

6 Block v. North Dakota ex rel. Bd. of Univ. & Sch. Lands, 461 U.S. 273, 287 (1983).

7 The Federal Tort Claims Act (“FTCA”), 28 U.S.C. §§ 2671-2680, constitutes a partial waiver
 8 of sovereign immunity for some tort claims asserted against the United States. Any such tort suit must 9 be brought in strict compliance with the FTCA’s provisions, which specify the terms, conditions and 10 extent of this limited sovereign immunity waiver. Lehner v. United States, 685 F.2d 1187, 1189 (9th
 11 Cir. 1982); Caidin v. United States, 564 F.2d 284, 286 (9th Cir. 1977). Thus, the FTCA’s specific terms
 12 limit a federal court’s jurisdiction to entertain an action under that Act. Warren v. United States Dep’t 13 of the Interior B.L.M., 724 F.2d 776, 777 (9th Cir. 1984).

14 As a waiver of sovereign immunity, the FTCA must be strictly construed in the United States’
 15 favor. Brady v. United States, 211 F.3d 499, 502 (9th Cir. 2000). See also United States Dep’t of 16 Energy v. Ohio, 503 U.S. 607, 615 (1992). (Immunity waivers must be construed strictly in the 17 sovereign’s favor and may not be enlarged beyond what the enabling statute’s language requires.) No
 18 liability attaches under the FTCA except where expressly authorized by Congress, and a plaintiff must 19 demonstrate an unequivocal waiver of immunity. United States v. Kubrick, 444 U.S. 111, 117-18
 20 (1979). "The party who sues the United States bears the burden of pointing to such an unequivocal
 21 waiver of immunity." Holloman v. Watt, 708 F.2d 1399, 1401 (9th Cir. 1983); see also Blue v. Widnall, 22 162 F.3d 541, 544 (9th Cir. 1998).

23 2. Before a District Court Complaint Can Be Filed under the FTCA, a Plaintiff
 24 Must First File an Administrative Claim with the Cognizant Agency

25 A basic jurisdictional requirement for maintaining a tort suit against the federal government
 26 under the FTCA is that a party must first file an administrative claim with the cognizant agency seeking
 27 a sum certain in damages. 28 U.S.C. § 2675. If such a claim has not been filed, a district court has no 28 subject matter jurisdiction to hear the case.

29 A failure to file a valid administrative claim divests a district court of jurisdiction to hear a party's
 30 claim. See Cadwalader v. United States, 45 F.3d 297, 300 (9th Cir. 1995); Jerves v. United States, 966

1 F.2d 517, 519 (9th Cir. 1992); Burns v. United States, 764 F.2d 722, 724 (9th Cir. 1985); Avila v. I.N.S.,
 2 731 F.2d 616, 618 (9th Cir. 1984); Holloman v. Watt, 708 F.2d 1399, 1402 (9th Cir. 1983). "Exhaustion
 3 of the claims procedures established under the Act is a prerequisite to district court jurisdiction."
 4 Johnson v. United States, 704 F.2d 1431, 1442 (9th Cir. 1983). "This claim requirement is jurisdictional
 5 in nature and may not be waived." Spawr v. United States, 796 F.2d 279, 280 (9th Cir. 1986). Section
 6 2675(a)'s requirements are "strictly adhered to." Jerves v. United States, 966 F.2d at 521.

7 Moreover, a plaintiff seeking to invoke the court's jurisdiction must affirmatively allege that he 8 has timely filed an administrative claim. Gillespie v. Civiletti, 629 F.2d 637, 640 (9th Cir. 1980). See
 9 also Hutchinson v. United States, 677 F.2d 1322, 1327 (9th Cir. 1982). Without this factual predicate
 10 for the court's jurisdiction, the complaint is subject to dismissal. Id. In the present case, Plaintiff has 11 failed to allege that he filed an administrative claim with the appropriate federal agency before bringing 12 suit in district court. Accordingly, his Complaint must be dismissed, subject to amendment if the 13 jurisdictional defect can be cured. Id.

14 C. PLAINTIFF HAS IMPROPERLY NAMED THE VA AS A DEFENDANT

15 Plaintiff has named the VA rather than the United States as a defendant in this case. It is well
 16 established, however, that "the United States is the only proper party defendant in an FTCA action."
 17 Kennedy v. U.S. Postal Service, 145 F.3d 1077, 1078 (9th Cir. 1998). It is equally well established that 18 "federal agencies are not subject to suit eo nomine unless so authorized by Congress in explicit 19 language." Shelton v. U.S. Customs Service, 565 F.2d 1140, 1141 (9th Cir. 1977). As the Ninth Circuit
 20 stated in FDIC v. Craft, 157 F.3d 697, 706 (9th Cir. 1998), "[a]lthough [FTCA] claims can arise from 21 the acts or omissions of United States agencies (28 U.S.C. § 2671), an agency itself cannot be sued under 22 the FTCA." Accordingly, the VA should be dismissed as a named Defendant.
